About Yera – an Ergonomic Superstar!

This task chair satisfies every requirement of ergonomic design. The mesh back membrane is designed to provide back support that will fit and adjust to each user's back shape, with upper and lower areas that are firm, with a closed cell structure, and a middle section that has a more open, soft cell structure.

The 3D seat foam detects where seat pressure is applied and spreads the load evenly within the 3D core thereby reducing pressure on the thigh and providing enhanced comfort throughout the working day.

User fatigue is a common complaint when sitting for prolonged periods and this can cause musculoskeletal issues. Yera addresses this with a smooth easy-flow 20 degree reclining back, which is linked to an independent seat slider that further reduces pressure on the thigh region.

About Nature

The design for this task chair is taken from nature and inspired by the shape of a tree. The back support is formed around a central 'trunk' with the leaf shaped lumbar adjustments supported on the branches. The unique mesh with its window pattern frames the view of the tree as if through a window.

As well as its aesthetics, Nature is a superbly engineered task chair which provides excellent ergonomic support with elastic mesh and fully adjustable lumbar support.
